02.10.02

SAN DIEGO, Calif., February 10, 2002 - Private Inquiries, Inc., a market leader in developing on-line investigation tools and smart information services, today announced it is providing on-line uploads of video, audio and text via www.privateinquiries.com. The quick and convenient smart service is currently available via the Internet for users of the company's cutting-edge application service provider (ASP).

At www.privateinquiries.com PIQ users can upload the latest video surveillance film, recorded statements, medical reports, and legal briefs utilizing the ASP, which offers highly secure on-line case management, and the capability to manage ongoing claims in real-time from any desktop in the world. The ASP allows viewing of streaming video in real-time on any desktop in the world only minutes after the video was obtained in the field. Digital recorded statements are uploaded for review, medical evaluations and legal transcripts and depositions can be viewed by several parties while discussing the results. Additionally, a free download of Private Inquiries' upgraded Inquire Plus™ software version 2.0 is available. The Inquire Plus download allows users to sync Cases, Schedule, Due Date and To Do items with their PDA's and popular PC organizers such as Microsoft Outlook ® 2000.

These innovative breakthrough solutions for the user are truly unprecedented in the investigation industry. The ASP currently benefits the insurance, medical and legal industry, and the ASP platform design will soon benefit many other corporate industries. Private Inquiries strives to be a technical innovator in the investigation industry, and being the first and only company to offer on-line case management via our ASP is a testament to our strong commitment to providing quality investigations worldwide.

Private Inquiries' first ASP roll out - the comprehensive, all-in-one investigation management tool offers all the benefits of conventional investigation reporting, plus the highly advanced convenience of viewing video online, listening to recorded statements, and receiving medical reports all within minutes of completion.
